We had 11 shooters for the June match. This was the first match for my daughter, Ginger, though her shooting needs some improvement. She did beat out some guys that had been shooting for years! She said it was fun and wants to do it more (there went my pocketbook). Grant Pickard won high overall with the rifle that I traded him.

NOTICE: Bobby Sherrill has some new shotshells. He said that they are so fast that you have to shoot behind the birds.

Annual Fun Shoot

June 13, 2004

We had a nice turnout even though the weather was hot. Shooting started at 10:00 and we broke for a fantastic brisket lunch provided by Benny Emmons and helpers. The competitions were unusual variations of skeet and trap that leveled the playing field. We had about 25 shooters off and on throughout the day.

Argentina Dove Hunt

by Dave Robinson

The phrase "gratuity included" has always made me nervous. It seems to be a way for someone to gain maximum reward for minimum service. Well, on our recent trip to Argentina to hunt doves with Marcelo Gil, the included gratuity was nowhere near enough to reward the staff for the excellent care we were afforded during our 4+ days in their care.

Yes, the birds were there in incredible numbers, just as we were told they would be, not only doves but pigeons as well. During our year long correspondence with MG Hunting, not once did they mention pigeons as an enticement to book our hunt with them, but there they were, looking like bombers in flight accompanied by hoards of doves as escorts.

As important as the birds were, they turned out to be only half of the experience we shared as guests of MG Hunting. From the moment we cleared customs in Cordoba until we boarded the plane to leave, the folks at MG did their best to take care of us.

Every morning we were greeted with a full breakfast of fruit, cereal, scrambled eggs, scones and boiled coffee. We loaded up in the Mercedes van and headed to the dove fields. As we drove through the countryside to the hunting grounds, it was like being in a time warp and returned to the 1920's. All the school children wore uniforms and walked or rode bikes to school. We even saw a few horse drawn rigs which were mixed right in with the rest of the traffic.

After a 45 minute ride we arrived at the camp site. The cooks were already working on lunch and they had a fire going to make coals used for cooking lunch. While we had a final cup of coffee the guns were uncased and placed in the rack of the hunting vehicle. We were assigned bird boys, which is a misnomer, because they were actually shell boys. They assigned the biggest ones to Ted and John because they had to carry such a large load of shells.

Off to the fields we went for the morning hunt, the idea being that the birds were to fly over us on their way into the fields. In the afternoon this was reversed so we could shoot the birds on their way to the roost. There was never a time when birds were not in sight and many times there were more than you could shoot at.

Around noon the truck would pick us up and take us back to camp. A canopy was set up over the dining table which was covered with a white linen table cloth and napkins, china, silverware and crystal for your water and wine. A small table was set to one side with appetizers and refreshment to enjoy while the noon meal was prepared. The meal was a minimum of 4 courses and usually 6, which was all served by our waiter dressed in a white shirt and bow tie. Lawn chairs were set up for those who wished to take a short nap after lunch.

Back to the fields again for a day's recap, clean and pack up the guns and drive back to the hacienda.

After a quick cleanup we usually met in the dining room where the appetizers and refreshments reappeared. In about an hour or so the first course of dinner would appear and we would proceed to stuff ourselves again. By the end of the meal Marcelo and his right hand man, Patrick, would put in an appearance and inform us of the plans for the next day and to find out if we had any unanswered needs. After dinner we could play pool, ping pong or indulge in a friendly game of poker, using empty shell cases for chips. By 6 the next morning it was time to start all over again.

This is hunting like we will never see again. The people are delightful, there is no anti-American sentiment in this small town, the game is plentiful and the weather is perfect. I could tell you that the hunting is so good that 2 days is actually enough but you wouldn't believe it. You will have to go yourself to find out if this is true.

There is much more to the trip than space allotted here will allow us to relate and many tips we can give you on the trip. If you would like more info just contact Ted Preston, Dave Robinson, John Ehler or Chris Collinveti.

No Flood But Lots of Help

We received word Wednesday the 9th from the city staff that the gun club was going to flood the next day. Within hours about 20 people were at the club removing the low house machines, moving clay targets to higher ground, disconnecting electrical lines, tying down barrels, moving anything that would float and generally preparing for high water. The club has not been under water since 1989, 1990 and 1991. Below is a list of all the helpers we noticed. If we overlooked anyone let us know and we will add your name later.

Most of the same group put everything back Saturday so the club would be ready for the Sunday FUN SHOOT. Volunteers are what makes this club work. Participate when you can and thank those that do.
